About the Artist

Edna Crews was born in Snoqualmie Falls and resided in the Pacific Northwest for most of her life. She studied under Opal Fleckenstein, Mark Tobey, and Kenneth Callahan. Edna was a graduate of Washington State University and has been featured in exhibitions across Washington including the Frye Museum, Seattle Art Museum, and the Smithsonian Institution.

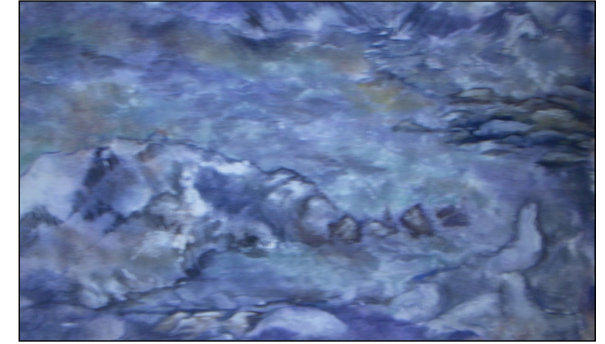

ARCTIC LANDSCAPE

WATERCOLOR, 1972

Edna had a deep appreciation of nature and marveled at its color. She always saw the beauty of objects and loved the way light effected everything. Whether it was the moonlight through the trees or the softness of fog lying in the valleys- she loved to explore the beauty of the Northwest.
